EX WHO'S WHO?

JINZO

The ghoulish Jinzo taunts Jaden:
"First I'll beat you, then I'll consume you!"

Find out everything you'll ever need to know about super-scary Jinzo!

- NAME: Jinzo
- MAJOR DUEL: Against Jaden in Academy Island's power station.
- WHO IS HE?: The Duelling Spirit which has been let into the world.
- ENERGY: Electricity and humans' life forces.
- RIVALS: Jaden
- GOAL: To survive in the human world by devouring souls.

DID YOU KNOW:
JADEN AGREES WITH WINGED KURIBOH THAT THE SPIRIT JINZO
"IS ONE UGLY DUDE!"

GET THE CHAT

- Run... but you can't hide!
- There's no escape!
- Foolish mortal!
- Your demise is imminent!
- I'm taking half your life force... and it feels good!
- Ready for more pain mortal?

This sinister spook appears suddenly at the Academy as a result of a forbidden supernatural summoning (see page 10). He's a Duelling Spirit, just like Winged Kuriboh. The difference is that Jinzo is not so friendly! His appearance makes the students who called him terrified. They're right to be worried!

Bad Spirit

Jinzo needs the life forces of mortals to sustain him. He starts with those of the students who traded themselves to bring him to life. One of them, Torrey, escapes and makes it to Jaden's Dorm. "You look like you've seen a ghost!", Jaden tells him. The terrified Torrey replies, "I, I have!" Jinzo soon turns up to claim Torrey as his third spirit saying, "We have a deal!"

More Power

Jinzo Duels Jaden in a power station, "using the current to power himself up." Jaden offers "my life energy" if he loses in return for Torrey. The dastardly Duel Monster accepts because, "You do emit more vitality than this other human."

High Spirits

The Duel goes well for Jinzo at first and he thinks it's a good way to devour a soul: "This Duel was an excellent idea. It's so much better to enjoy something slowly rather than taking it all at once!"

Personal Attack

When *Jinzo Summons himself to the field!: "Oh come on" says Jaden, "I mean, you can't Summon yourself!" "I just did!" replies Jinzo. Jaden tells Jinzo, "You're still just a phantom to me!" and whups him. Jinzo is furious about losing: "No... I'm too close... I won't let it end here!"

WORD UP

As Jinzo is losing the Duel, he clings on by possessing Torrey's body: "I am not Torrey I am Jinzo and I raise myself from the Graveyard." But Jaden finishes off Jinzo, freeing Torrey.

ACADEMY JOURNAL

It's your chance to find out just what Academy students and staff have to say about Jinzo in the exclusive Duel Academy Journal!

Opponent, Jaden Yuki: Tells Jinzo to give up the student Torrey: "If you need a third sacrifice so bad, well then... just take me instead. Ya hear me Jinzo?! Take me!"

Slifer Red, Syrus Truesdale: Celebrates when Jinzo takes a hit in the Duel, "That's the spirit! I mean - that's how you beat a spirit - I mean - oh you know!"

Slifer Red, Chumley Huffington: Is alarmed when Jinzo goes right into the scary power station: "Aw, why do spirits always go where it's spookiest!"

Teacher, Professor Lyman Banner: Warns the students all about Jinzo: "He's a clever one!"

MONSTERS USED BY JINZO

Check out some of the cards used by the sinister Duel Monster spirit Jinzo!

DID YOU KNOW:
JINZO'S LETHAL FLAMING ELECTRIC BALL ATTACK IS CALLED CYBER ENERGY SHOCK!

Guess who Jinzo's strongest Duel monster is? It's Jinzo himself!

The scary spook really foxes Jaden when he brings himself onto the field – and it's a legal move!

- Jinzo is an awesome Machine/Effect Monster, packing a whopping 2400 ATK and 1500 DEF Points!
- This monster's effect means that as long as he's face-up on the field new Trap Cards cannot be activated and existing ones are negated.

Amplifier

Jinzo gets even more powerful when he's equipped with the Spell Card Amplifier.

This nifty piece of headgear means that Jinzo himself isn't bound by his effect on Trap Cards. But if it's taken off the field he is destroyed!

YOUR CARD

YOUR CARD

Malice Doll of Demise

- Jinzo kicks off his attack on Jaden with this nasty Fiend/Effect Card.
- This little horror has 1600 ATK and 1700 DEF Points!
- The special effect is, as long as he is sent to the Graveyard when you are at the Standby Phase by the effect of a Continuous Spell Card, he gets brought back to the field.
- Jinzo uses this effect to good effect – bringing Malice Doll of Demise back into the battle time and again!

YOUR CARD

Malice Doll of Demise repeatedly takes a terrible toll on Jaden's Life Points. He attacks directly, hurling his big axe at the Slifer Red student with the 'Heaven Cleaver' attack!

YOUR CARD

Ectoplasmer

Malice Doll of Demise is strongest when backed up by this Spell Card. This "fiendish spirit," allows a face-up Jinzo to, "sacrifice one monster" during the Standby Phase of his turn. Then when Malice Doll goes to the Graveyard, half his ATK points are done as damage to the opponent's Life Points.

Spirit Caller

- This Spellcaster/Effect Monster has a handy 1000 ATK and DEF Points.
- He has a neat effect: when he's flipped from face-down to face-up you can can Special Summon a Level 3 or lower Regular Monster!

YOUR CARD

Spirit Caller attacks the defenceless Jaden directly with its Breath from Beyond attack.

Emissary Of The Afterlife

- This Fiend/Effect Monster has 1600 ATK and 600 DEF Points!
- When he's sent to the Graveyard both players take a level 3 or lower monster from their Decks.

YOUR CARD

Emissary of the Afterlife attacks Jaden with Sickle Slasher attack, but is destroyed. This triggers his special effect.

DON'T SPIRIT SUMMON!

When student's disobey the Academy rules, really bad things happen!

Duel Spirits should be left where they belong!

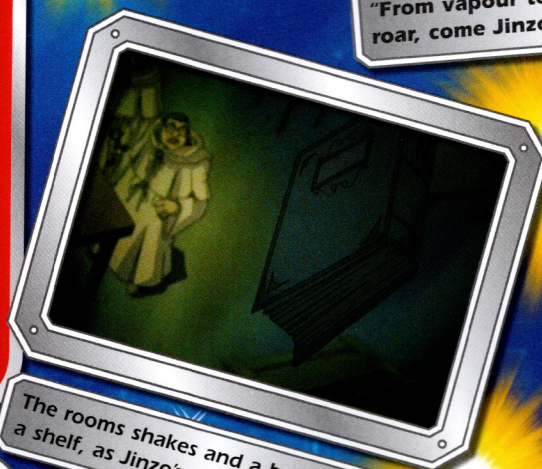

Obelisk Blue Student Torrey told some of his friends how he'd learnt that, "Under certain conditions, Duel Spirits could come to life."

Torrey and his two mates tried to, "create those conditions - even though the Academy forbids it!"

Their Mystic box spells out, "Give me three and I'll be free." It was Jinzo and he meant people because, "Jinzo's appetite would never be satisfied by mere cards!"

"From vapour to flesh, from wind to a roar, come Jinzo from the land of yore!"

The rooms shakes and a book falls from a shelf, as Jinzo's spirit stirs!

This time it works: "Maybe it was because we used our bed sheets as cloaks."

"The Mystic Box spelled out, 'Give me three and I'll be free'."

MONSTER MONSTER!

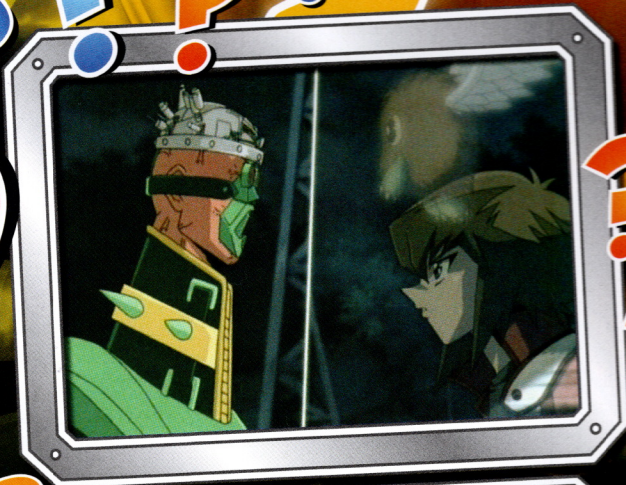

Jinzo gets a surprise when Winged Kuriboh appears on Jaden's shoulder!

Jaden draws his furry mascot from his Deck, and is he glad to see him! "WINGED KURIBOH!"

Jaden and Winged Kuriboh agree about Jinzo: "Oh yeah, I'm with ya, pal. He is one ugly dude!"

"He's a friend first and a spirit second! Which is why he doesn't need to snack on human souls to chill out in the land of the living."

Jinzo's surprised to see another Duel Monster appear in person: "A spirit!"

Winged Kuriboh is a loyal friend and mascot to Jaden, but how did they first get linked?

Yugi Muto gave Jaden Winged Kuriboh.

ANSWER

MUCKY M

Square up to two recycled spirits from Ancient Japan

A patch of mud might look harmless, but watch out – it might turn into a dorotabou mud-spirit! The nupperabou could be a danger, too!

According to legend, the first dorotabou was the ghost of an angry old man who showed his bad spirits by turning into a bad spirit! You'd find this youkai (a type of magical creature) lurking in the Japanese countryside, waiting to leap out from a muddy rice-field and terrify unwary passers-by!

Rice and men

The old man's ghost was furious because, after he died, the rice fields that he had worked so hard to look after had been sold off by his son. This was because his kids were lazy and didn't like doing lots of tough farm work. Even after his death, the farmer's spirit didn't like to see all his toil go to waste.

Get off my land!

To show his displeasure the old man's spirit took on human form again – this time out of mud and soil. With his single bulging eyeball staring menacingly, the dorotabou would rear up from the mud to scare the new owners of his land. Horrifying as he looked, the dorotabou would never do any actual harm. But his mere appearance was enough to stop anyone else using the land.

Nupperabou

You'd be forgiven for thinking that these ugly, misshapen, mud-covered men were evil and dangerous. Squat and doughy, the nupperabou were manufactured out of the body parts of their enemies! But contrary to appearances they were good creatures.

Dangerous defender

They were summoned up to defend sacred places - a job they performed with great loyalty. As long as people respected this place they were safe, but anyone who tried to desecrate it would be crushed by the nupperabou. Then the criminal's body was absorbed into the nupperabou's own body. You couldn't defeat him either, because he was immune to any attack! Just because he was made out of old stuff didn't mean he wasn't tough!

Meet some more mysterious mud men!

Murphysboro Mud Monster

In the great sprawling wilderness of Illinois in America there's a story of a mysterious creature that is supposed to have appeared in the 1970s. Several people reported seeing a big shaggy green beast covered in gunge, with ape-like arms and red glowing eyes. Witnesses claimed it came out of the woods, getting very close before moving away. Although nobody was hurt, those who encountered it were terrified by its blood-curdling, inhuman wailing.

Afterwards,

investigators say they found a trail of broken branches,

big footprints and a funny smell.

Tiddy Mun

This bog spirit came from the wetlands and marshy areas of Lincolnshire in the east of England. It appeared as a thin old man with a long white beard and was said to live in the marshes. Normally friendly to humans, it would help the locals by making the waters go down after a flood. However, Tiddy Mun, or 'little man' in the Lincolnshire dialect, could turn against people if they threatened to harm the wetlands. When engineers came to drain the bog hundreds of years ago, the locals killed them and threw in their bodies to appease Tiddy Mun!

DRAW SYRUS TRUESDALE

He might be a small chap but, as they say, great things come in small packages!

1

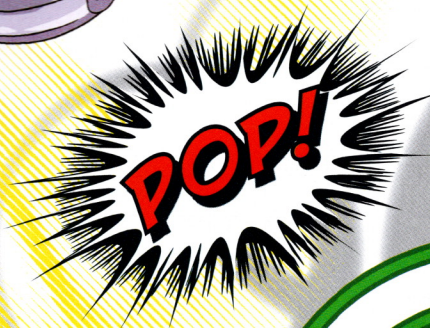

Beginning your drawing of Syrus is just like the start of every other GX character and monster you have drawn. Look at the proportions of Syrus, he's about five heads tall. Keep that in mind as you start sketching him out.

2

4

5

TOP TIP

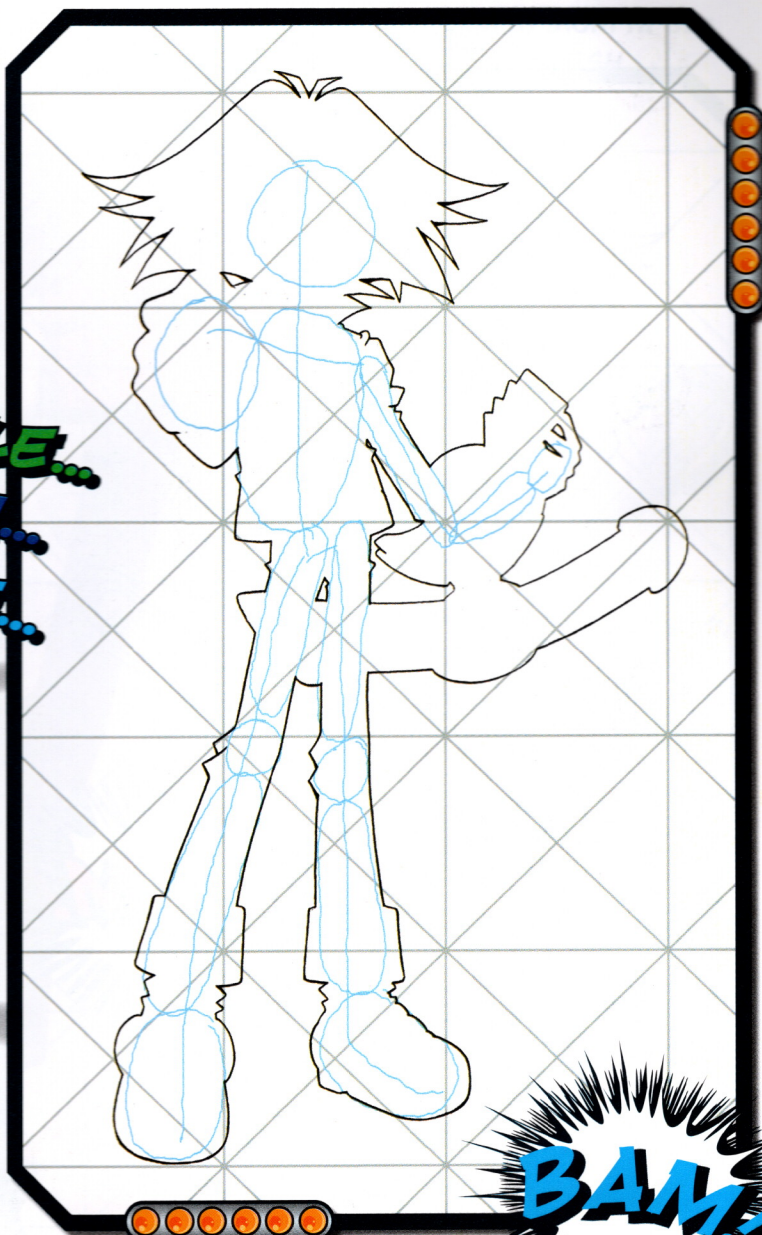

WHY NOT
USE THE SKILLS
YOU'VE LEARNT ON THESE PAGES TO START CREATING
YOUR OWN MANGA CHARACTERS?

SCRIBBLE...
SCRATCH...
SCRIBBLE...

1 The line of action in a picture is important in two ways: it makes your character appear dynamic (lively and full of movement). It also helps you keep your drawing in proportion. Use the grid below to help you copy in Syrus' line of action. Once you've done that, carefully draw in the outline of his body and Duel Disk just as we've done here. When you've got Syrus' proportions correct you'll be able to enlarge or reduce your image as you choose.

2 As you're drawing the whole of Syrus, the next thing you'll need to do is to roughly sketch in his body shape. Keep the shapes you use for his body parts really simple at this stage, later on you can add in more detail. The point of this step is to act as a guide – that way, when you start to add in detail (for example Syrus' hand) you can see the sizes easily. Don't forget to add in some small circle shapes where Syrus' knees are. Also, the shape that you use for his pointing hand will be larger than the one holding his cards.

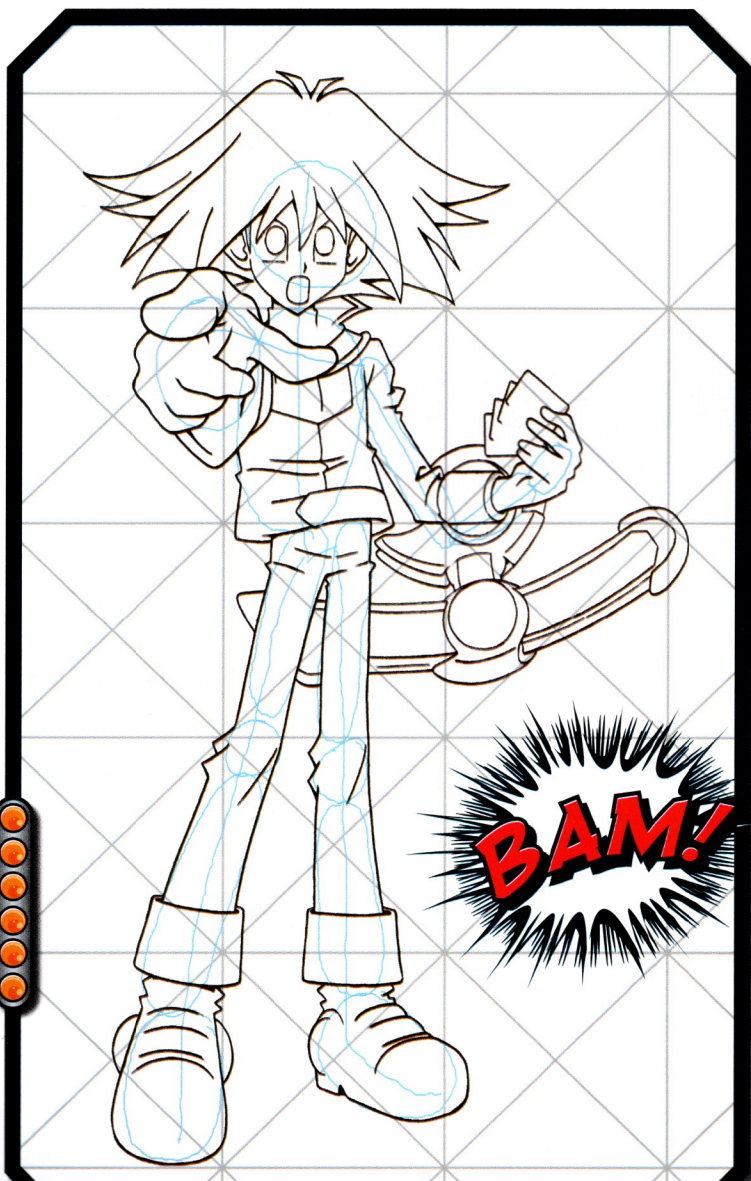

BAM!

If you look at the main picture of Syrus you'll notice that he has lots of hair. So that it doesn't look like he has a blob of solid hair on his head, copy in the lines – these make his hair look like it has movement in it. Now look at his face. As you have drawn the fringe it should be easier to get his eyes, nose and mouth in the right place. You can also use the grid to help. Next, move onto the lines on his jacket and add in the shape of his hands. Work on the basic lines of his Duel Disk and his shoes and trousers. In the next step you can add in more details.

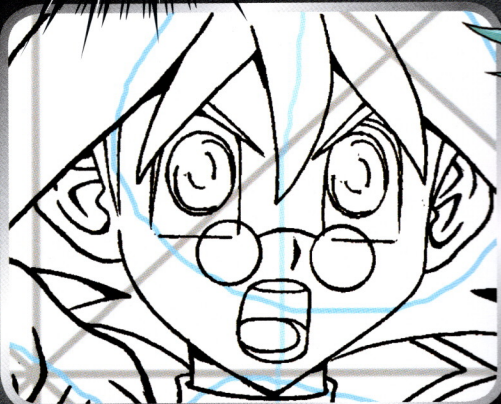

4

Adding in the small details to a drawing takes time, but it'll make a lot of difference. Draw in Syrus' glasses and his eyes – you can use the close-up to help. Another bit you might struggle with is his hands, again you can use the close-up to help. Make sure you copy in the beading on his jacket and all the little lines that show the creases of his clothing. Generally these fall where the body bends and moves. Drawing them in will make Syrus look less static (stationary).

TAKE A CLOSER LOOK

Syrus wears glasses, they perch on the end of his little nose. Draw them just like this. One of Syrus's hands is pointing, while the other is clutching his Deck. It's quite hard to draw this so use the image below to help you.

After you've outlined all the bits you want to keep on your drawing with a fine tipped pen, you can get busy with colouring Syrus. Use this colour chart to help.
